

"Learning must be goal-oriented, and it must be fun. The student who wants to learn, and who sees the use in learning, is the student who learns well."

COLIN MARETSKY

English Teacher

Teaching since 2016,

Teaching experience at Compass Education, EC English.

Certificates:

Bachelor of Science Degree in Psychology, Northeastern University;

Bachelor of Science Degree in Forensic Psychology, John Jay College of Criminal Justice;

CELTA (Certificate in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages).

Qualified to teach

English all levels.

Success Cases

Colin has helped to motivate students from many different backgrounds and nationalities to take English learning into their own hands, and advance themselves towards English fluency. He has been able to focus on the unique learning differences and difficulties of students from a wide range of cultures, and provide the tools and strategies for his students to use throughout their English career.